From the Rabbi's desk

Shalom and a zissen Pesach to everyone!

It's always difficult to write about Passover and spring when Purim hasn't even taken place, and snow is still on the ground. I trust the snow will melt away and I will see the trees begin to bud and hear the birds chirping once again. Passover falls towards the end of the month and because of the leap year, we have had extra time to prepare. Yet, I never seem to feel ready or prepared enough. This must have been what it felt like to be slaves in Egypt. The Israelites did not know when they would be leaving, and had to leave in a hurry. Pharaoh changed his mind again and again. When finally the tenth plague was upon them, the Israelites were commanded to eat the Passover sacrifice quickly— "This is how you shall eat it: your loins girded, your sandals on your feet, and your staff in your hand; and you shall eat it hurriedly" [Ex. 12:11]. Rashi (Rabbi Shlomo ben Yitzhak, 11th century, Provence) explains that the word "hurriedly" (chipazon) "implies haste under pressure."

"Haste under pressure." This has been my experience getting ready every Pesach! No matter how much time I have, I always feel as if I'm under pressure. Is there a value to be learned from this? Perhaps. According to the commentary in the Haggadah, "A Different Night," we eat matzah as a lesson not to procrastinate. "The Rabbis fixed 18 minutes as the maximum time for making matzah from the moment the water and flour is mixed. They taught

Jews to be very precise about time—not to procrastinate when making matzah or doing any other mitzvah. (A word play conveys the idea that a procrastinator can easily 'miss the boat' turning matza into chametz. They coined the motto: 'When an opportunity to perform a mitzvah comes to you, don't miss it—tachmeetz.' Mitzvah is a word play on matza, tachmeetz on chametz)." <sup>1</sup>

This teaches us not to put off performing a mitzvah. At TBS we have many ways to perform mitzvot and acts of loving-kindness. One way is to help the needs of our community by providing rides to synagogue, visiting the ill, or comforting those in mourning.

I hope to see many of you at our Community Seder on Saturday evening, April 20th. For more information and to make reservations, please check out the flyer in this month's Voice.

From The President

March has been an amazing month at TBS, bustling with excitement and activities. We started off with Shabbat Across America and continued with multiple Purim celebrations along with all the other activities in between.

SAA and the Adult Purim Ball were well attended by both members and visitors. Thanks to the membership committee who spearheaded both events. Thanks also to all who donated, shopped, shlepped, served and cleaned. Special mention to our florist, Sam Rosenberg, for his most generous gift of beautiful table settings for SAA. Thanks to our clergy and school principal. Once again, our custodial and office staff rose to the occasion, thank you.

We have now entered into Spring, the season we have long waited for, with no less excitement but different activities. We are planning to host a second night Seder at TBS, if you plan to attend please make your reservations EARLY. Last minute adjustments are very difficult to make once the order for the meal has been placed.

The month of March has also blessed us four new member units, three already approved by the board and one up for approval at the next board meeting. We welcome our new members to their TBS family. A sweet and happy Passover to my entire Temple family. May this be a time of joy and appreciation as you share this special holiday with your loved ones.

Your President,
Fay Schildkraut

She has performed on stage as Gretl in "The Sound of Music" and as a Royal Child in "The King And I", at Theater By The Bay. Aviva has attended Surprise Lake Camp since she is 6 years old. We are proud of all the work that Aviva has done to prepare for this milestone in her Jewish Life. We know that she will continue to work hard in the future!

How Can I Contribute to TBS without Spending?

1. If every TBS member and their family and friends open a new, non-interest bearing checking account at TD Bank, you can get $25 AND Temple Beth Sholom will receive $50 for every new checking account opened (that remains open for at least one year). ## Cantor's Corner

Despite the fact that cable television has brought countless channels into our homes, I usually find that there's little worth watching. I'm not much of a TV guy, but several years ago, New Year's Day, turned into an exception.

First, I stumbled upon an "Odd Couple" Marathon on Channel 10! Hours and hours of Felix Unger and Oscar Madison, doing what they did so spectacularly-drive each other crazy. Once I started, I found it difficult to stop. Neil Simon's brilliant original concept played and expanded outrageously each week by Tony Randall (born Arthur Leonard Rosenberg) and Jack Klugman (born Jacob Joachim Klugman). An incredible Jewish writer's work brought to life by two incomparable Jewish comedic actors.

My wife Zo had to drag me out of the house at around 2:30 that afternoon to visit my brother-in-law and sister-in-law. We went, had a lovely time and meal, and got home at about 7:30 in the evening. Believe it or not, the marathon was still going! I watched three more episodes of the obsessive compulsive Felix and the slovenly Oscar, and the marathon came to an end. Then, a half hour later, I switched to Public Television on Channel 13. This was to be the main event I had read about in Newsday earlier in the week.

WNET/13 presented a show called "Great Performances-Broadway Musicals: A Jewish Legacy". This was a 90-minute documentary about the Jewish influence on American musical theater. Joel Grey narrated the program, which highlighted the work of such Jewish songwriting greats as Irving Berlin, Jerome Kern, the Gershwins, Lorenz Hart, Richard Rodgers, Kurt Weill, Jule Styne and Jerry Herman. It tracked everything from "Oklahoma" and "Showboat" to "Fiddler on the Roof" and "Cabaret", and ably made the case that there is a direct line from synagogue, liturgical melodies to those of Broadway. Imagine that-the melodies of Jewish prayers becoming part of our popular culture. No need to imagine, because that's exactly what happened. In one fascinating segment, one composer makes the case that the Gershwins' "It Ain't Necessarily So" is directly "lifted" from the chant used for the blessings before and after reading from the Torah. Check the tune-he may very well be right!

The show framed the fact that the American musical theater was largely the Jewish legacy to America, and then, America's legacy to the world. The show (just like watching the "Odd Couple" marathon) made me very proud to be Jewish, and proud of what Jews have done right here in the USA. If you ever have the chance to see "Great Performances-Broadway Musicals: A Jewish Legacy", don't miss it. Maybe the Temple can purchase a copy, and we could have a showing right here. As a Jewish songwriter, a Jewish musician, and simply as a Jew, I couldn't have been, and couldn't be more impressed. I look forward to singing with you soon!

With affection,
Cantor Jerry Korobow

Religious School News

Life has been hectic here at Hebrew School. As we go to press, we are one day away from our Purimspiel! Our students have outdone themselves in preparation, rehearsing diligently and with good humor every day. I expect outstanding performances from the whole ensemble at Purim Services! Thanks to our patient teachers, Ruth, Beth, Rob, and Zilpa, who have put up with the disruptions to their classes for rehearsal time.

Our hamantaschen bake was a great success on Sunday March 17th. Each student made a small plate of hamantaschen to take home. We had a new flavor this year. Thanks to the White family's tradition, we had grape jelly hamantaschen for the first time. Special thanks to Jeff Cohen, who helped with organization and manned the timer and the oven for us!

Hebrew schoolers had fun dressing up in costumes and playing bingo while noshing on chicken nuggets, mac and cheese, fries, salad, and goodies at the PA Purim Bingo event! We are always grateful for the fun and the support the hard working parents of the PA provide for us!

Kudos also to the ever stalwart Geri Weiss, who once again brought the Miss Chocolate candy sale to TBS for Passover!

Now that Purim is a happy memory, we are kicking up in to high gear for Passover. The halls will be filled with 4 questions and Passover melodies for the next few weeks. Our Model seder will take place on Sunday morning April 14th, 2019, at 11:00 a.m.

Mazal tov to our recent B'not Mitzvah Ava Wolinetz, Dara Bernstein, and Aviva Kaufman and their families!

Wishing all of you a happy and festive Passover shared with those you love!

B'shalom,
Karen Feit
Principal of the Religious School

Scoop's Schmooze

It is a seat with a view that everyone should have a chance to enjoy at least once in their lives.

It is akin to front row center orchestra seats for a Broadway show or a concert, 50 yard-line seats for a football game or to those chairs atop Fenway Park's Green Monster.

That seat was my seat on the bimah for the March 1st Friday night service. From there, chills, warmth and smiles enveloped me as I was able to look out over a sanctuary full of dozens of smiling, singing and engaged people---those who I know so well and those who I have yet to meet--- who were so involved in all that the celebration of Shabbat represents each week. However, this one was a bit extra-special, as it was the 23rd Shabbat Across America; one of many events and programs of the National Jewish Outreach Program that in the last 31 years has touched 1,653,734 Jews in 5,089 synagogues and organizations in North America.

From that prime seat I looked out and immediately saw Renee, my father-in-law Isidore, our "family member" Davi, and my mother-in-law Rose, who through her "dancing and shimmying" was passionately feeling the music of Rabbi Ballan, Cantor Korobow, Maestro David Close, and percussionist Akiva Wharton. And, I had the best view of it all. Not only was it Shabbat Across America, it was also Temple Beth Sholom's monthly Musical Shabbat Service.

And, as my captivated panning of the room continued, I saw multiple three-generation families with our President Fay, her daughter Christina and her grandson Jacob; along with Dorothy, Eric, Stephanie, and Benjamin Rosenberg.

In close proximity to my family was the Fertig and Kroun mishpacha; which started on the end seat of the middle aisle and wonderfully took up more than half of the row. Scattered throughout the pews were Joy and Charlene, Deirdre and Carl all in my sightline. And, there were Marchel, her sister Jann and her daughter Valentina walking in along the back of the sanctuary and taking their seats to my left.

There were those born into the Temple Beth Sholom family decades ago in Elaine Larkin, along with Andrew and Emily. And there were the Harkavys and the Gandelmans.

There was the father and son usher team of Eric and Seth Bernstein, who were getting assistance from the Bernstein girls, wife Erica and daughter Dara. And Ben and Matt, Andrea and Michael had their seats as close to the bimah as a family could get, right in front of me.

And somewhere in the congregation were new members Laura Goldsmith and Ruth Davidson. I know they were there because they were seated at our table for dinner.

While this was a special Shabbat, the other 51 Friday nights that we meet the Sabbath bride are THE MOST important special days. Yet, each one is unique in its own way. It doesn't always have to include a melodious musical quartet, a fabulous dinner or something extra to celebrate.

But, I know February 28th, 2020 again will be extra-special. So circle it on your calendar. For I know, wherever you are, I will see you from the best seat in the house.

Looking Ahead to May Services

Join us on Friday, May 3rd at 8:00 p.m. for our Yom HaShoah/Holocaust Remembrance Day observance service. We are coordinating with the religious school for various types of presentations to integrate into our Shabbat service that night. Looking forward to Renee Katz Packer sharing some words. It is also a scheduled musical Shabbat with the organist David Close.

Let's join the Men's Club's effort to light a special Yellow candle. See enclosed flyer. Light the candle to honor those in America's armed forces and the IDF who safeguard our liberties. Light the candle in memory of all victims of terrorism. Put the candle in your window as a reminder that, if we ever forget, another Holocaust will descend upon us again like another plague of darkness.

The following Friday, May 10th, join the Jr. Congregation as we celebrate Yom HaAtzmaut/Israel Independence Day at 7:30 p.m. in the ballroom. It is always a thrill to participate in Shabbat services led by our youth, and this service will include some extra fun for Israel! Plan to join us for Shabbat, for Israel, Israeli dancing, songs and falafel!
